The organizational structure of the Company must correspond to its size and the nature, scope, and level of complexity of its activities and services provided, including the risk appetite and related risks, and must be structured in accordance with the principle of three lines of defence. The organizational structure of the Company must correspond to the complete understanding of potential risks and their management. The reporting and subordination chains of the Company must be ensured in such a way that all employees know their place in the organizational structure and know their work duties.

The CEO

The CEO is the carrier of the culture of compliance with the requirements of money laundering and terrorist financing prevention, guaranteeing that the CEO and employees of the Company operate in an environment where they are fully aware of the requirements for the prevention of money laundering and terrorist financing and the obligations associated with these requirements, and the relevant risk considerations are taken into account to a suitable extent in the decision-making processes of the Company.

The CEO bears ultimate responsibility for the measures taken to prevent the use of the Company's services for money laundering or terrorist financing. They provide oversight and are accountable for:

- establishing and maintaining AML¹ processes, procedures, risk, and control processes;
- adopting these Guidelines and other internal guidelines and instructions;
- determining the Company's Guidelines for AML measures;
- appointing an MLRO and ensuring that the MLRO has the powers, resources and expertise required to perform their assignment;
- allocating sufficient resources to ensure the effective implementation of the Guidelines and other related documents and to maintain the organization;
- ensuring all relevant employees complete annual AML training.

The first line of defence – the Employees

The first line of defence has the function of applying the due diligence measures upon business relationship and occasional transactions and applying due diligence measures during the business relationship. First line of defence comprises the structural units and employees of the Company with whose activities risks are associated and that must identify and assess these risks, their specific features and scope and that manage these risks by way of their ordinary activities, primarily by way of application of due diligence measures. The risks arising from the activities of and provision of services by the Company belong to the first line of defence. They are the managers (owners) of these risks and responsible for them.

¹ For the purpose of simplifying these Guidelines, relation to "AML" includes also prevention of terrorism financing and implementation of Sanctions

The employees of the Company must act with the foresight and competence expected from them and according to the requirements set for their positions, proceeding from the interests and the goals of the Company, and ensure that the country's financial system and economic space are not used for money laundering and terrorist financing. The Company takes measures to assess the suitability of the employees before they start working with the relevant training.

For the aforementioned reasons, the employees are required to:

- adhere to all requirements outlined in the Guidelines and other related documents;
- collect required Customer information in accordance with their function and accountabilities;
- report information, situations, activities, transactions or attempted transactions that are unusual for any type of service or Customer relationship, regardless of the amount, whether or not the transaction was completed without delay to the MLRO;
- not inform or otherwise make Customers aware if the Customer or any other Customers are or may be the subject of a report or if a report has been or may be filed;
- complete the appropriate AML training required for the employee's position.

The second line of defence – Risk Management and Compliance, MLRO

The second line of defence consists of the risk management and compliance functions. These functions may also be performed by the same person or structural unit depending on the size of the Company and the nature, scope and level of complexity of their activities and provided services, incl. the risk appetite and risks arising from activities of the Company.

The objective of the compliance function is to guarantee that the Company complies with effective legislation, guidelines and other documents and to assess the possible effect of any changes in the legal or regulative environment on the activities of the Company and on the compliance framework. The task of compliance is to help the first line of defence as the owners of risk to define the places where risks manifest themselves (e.g., analysis of suspicious and unusual transactions, for which compliance employees have the required professional skills, personal qualities, etc.) and to help the first line of defence manage these risks efficiently. The second line of defence does not engage in taking risks.

Risk policy is implemented, and the risk management framework is controlled by the risk management function. The performer of the risk management function ensures that all risks are identified, assessed, measured, monitored, and managed, and informs the appropriate units of the Company about them. The performer of the risk management function for the purposes of AML primarily performs the supervision over adherence to risk appetite, supervision over risk tolerance, supervision over identification of changes in risks, performs the overview of associated risks, and performs other duties related to risk management.

The CEO have appointed an MLRO for performing the second line of defence functions. This person is not operationally involved in the areas that the MLRO will be monitoring and verifying and is thus independent in relation to these. The MLRO is accountable for the following activities:

- produce and when necessary, update the Company's Guidelines;
 - monitoring and verifying on an ongoing basis that the Company is fulfilling the requirements prescribed by these Guidelines and related documents and according to external laws and regulations

 - check and regularly assess whether the Company's procedures and guidelines to prevent the use of the business for money laundering or terrorist financing are fit for purpose and effective;
 - identify the incidents in accordance with the Company's Guidelines and take measures regarding such incidents.

- all inadequacies (if any) identified by control function have been addressed;
- list of obligatory trainings which have been held for the staff in respect of AML measures.

The third line of defence – Internal audit

The third line of defence is comprised by the independent and effective internal audit function. The internal audit function may be performed by one or several Employees, the Company's structural unit with the relevant functions or by the third party, which provides the relevant service to the Company.

The Employees, the Company's structural unit or third party, which performs the internal audit function must have the required competency, tools, and access to the relevant information in all structural units of the Company. The internal audit methods must comply with the size of the Company, the nature, scope, and level of complexity of the activities and provided services, incl. the risk appetite and risks arising from activities of the Company.

CUSTOMER DUE DILIGENCE

Main Principles

Customer due diligence (CDD) measures are required for verifying the identity of a new or existing Customer as a well-performing risk-based ongoing monitoring of the business relationship with the Customer.

The CDD measures shall be applied by the Company through the responsible Employee in the following cases:

- when it is clear that the value of the occasional transaction(s) exceeds the amount of € 15 000;
- when occasional transaction(s) is performed with a PEP;
- when occasional transaction(s) is performed with the Customer which Country of Origin is located in high-risk third country⁵;
- in the course of the business relationship;
- when the Customer was identified remotely as specified above;
- upon suspicion of money laundering or terrorist financing, regardless of any derogations, exceptions or limits provided for in these Guidelines and applicable legislation.

In the aforementioned cases the Company shall apply CDD measures specified in this chapter.

In the case of receiving information in foreign languages within the framework of CDD measures implementation, the Company may request to demand translation of the documents to another language applicable for the Company. The use of translations should be avoided in situations when the original documents are prepared in a language applicable for the Company.

Achieving CDD is a process that starts with the CDD measures implementation. When that process is complete, the Customer assigns documented individual risk level which shall form the basis for follow-up measures, and which is followed up and updated when necessary.

The Company has applied CDD measures adequately if the Company has the inner conviction that they have complied with the obligation to apply due diligence measures. The principle of reasonability is observed in the consideration of inner conviction. This means that the Company must, upon the application of CDD measures, acquire the knowledge, understanding and assertion that they have collected enough information about the Customer, the Customer's activities, the purpose of the business relationship and of the transactions carried out within the scope of the business relationship, the origin of the funds, etc., so that they understand the Customer and the Customer's (business) activities, thereby taking into account the Customer's risk level, the risk associated with the business relationship and the nature of such relationship. Such a level of assertion must make it possible to identify complicated, high-value and unusual transactions and transaction patterns that have no reasonable or obvious economic or legitimate purpose or are uncharacteristic of the specific features of the business in question.

Identification of the purpose and nature of the business relationship or a transaction

The Company shall understand the purpose and nature of the establishing business relationship or performing transaction. The Company shall apply additional measures and collect additional information to identify the purpose and nature of the business relationship or an occasional transaction in cases where:

- there is a situation that refers to high value or is unusual and/or
- where the risk and/or risk profile associated with the Customer and the nature of the business relationship gives reason for the performance of additional actions in order to be able to appropriately monitor to business relationship later.

In addition to aforementioned measures, in the course of understanding the purpose and nature of the performing transaction the Company may establish source and origin of funds used in the transaction(s) as described below.

Monitoring of the business relationship

The Company shall monitor established business relationships where the following ongoing due diligence (ODD) measures are implemented:

- ensuring that the documents, data, or information collected in the course of the application of due diligence measures are updated regularly and in the case of trigger events, i.e., primarily the data concerning the Customer, their representative (incl. the right of representation) as well as the purpose and nature of the business relationship;
- ongoing monitoring of the business relationship, which covers transactions carried out in the business relationship to ensure that the transactions correspond to the Company's knowledge of the Customer, their activities and risk profile;
- identification of the source and origin of funds used in the transaction(s).

The Company shall regularly check and update the documents, data and information collected within the course of the implementation of CDD measures. The regularity of the checks must be based on the risk profile of the Customer and the checks must take place at least:

- once semi-annually for the high-risk profile Customer;
- once annually for the medium-risk profile Customer;
- once every two years for the low-risk profile Customer.

The collected documents, data and information must also be checked if an event has occurred which indicates the need to update the collected documents, data and information.

In the course of the ongoing monitoring of the business relationship, the Company shall monitor the transactions concluded during the business relationship in such a manner that the latter can determine whether the transactions to be concluded correspond to the information previously known about the Customer (i.e., what the Customer declared upon the establishment of the business relationship or what has become known in the course of the business relationship).

The Company shall also monitor the business relationship to ascertain the Customer's activities or facts that indicate criminal activities, money laundering or terrorist financing or the relation of which to money laundering or terrorist financing is probable, incl. complicated, high-value and unusual transactions and transaction patterns that do not have any reasonable or obvious economic or legitimate purpose or that are uncharacteristic of the specific features of the business in question. In the course of the business relationship, the Company shall constantly assess the changes in the Customer's activities and assess whether these changes may increase the risk level associated with the Customer and the business relationship, giving rise to the need to apply EDD measures.

In the course of the ongoing monitoring of the business relationship, the Company applies the following measures:

- screening i.e., monitoring transactions in real-time;
- monitoring i.e., analysing transactions later.

The objective of screening is to identify:

- suspicious and unusual transactions and transaction patterns;
- transactions exceeding the provided thresholds;
- politically exposed persons and circumstances regarding international sanctions.

The screening of the transactions is performed automatically and includes the following measures:

- established thresholds for the Customer's transactions, depending on the Customer's risk profile and the estimated transactions turnover declared by the Customer;
- the scoring of virtual currency wallets where the virtual currency shall be sent in accordance with the Customer's order;
- the scoring of virtual currency wallets from which the virtual currency is received.

If the Customer gives order for transaction which exceeds the threshold established or for transaction to the virtual currency wallet with high-risk score (e.g. wallets related to fraud, crime, etc.), the transaction shall be manually approved by the Employee, which shall access before the approval a necessity to apply any additional CDD measures (e. g. applying EDD measures, asking source and origin of funds or asking additional information regarding the transaction).

When monitoring transactions the Employee shall assess transaction with a view to detect activities and transactions that:

- deviate from what there is reason to expect based on the CDD measures performed, the services provided, the information provided by the Customer and other circumstances (e.g. exceeding estimated transactions turnover, virtual currency sending each time to new virtual currency wallet, volume of transactions exceeding limit);
- without deviating according to previous clause, may be assumed to be part of a money laundering or terrorist financing;
- may affect the Customer's risk profile score.

In case, when aforementioned fact is detected, the employee shall notify MLRO and postpone any transaction of the Customer until MLRO's decision regarding this.

In addition to aforementioned, the MLRO shall review the Company's transaction regularly (at least once per week) to ensure that:

- the Company's employees properly performed the aforementioned obligations;
- there are no transactions and transaction patterns that are complicated, high-value and unusual and that have no reasonable or obvious economic or legitimate purpose or are uncharacteristic of the specific features.

The Company identifies the source⁶ and origin⁷ of the funds used in transaction(s) if necessary. The need to identify the source and origin of funds depends on the Customer's previous activities as well as other known information. Thereby the identification of the source and origin of the funds used in transaction shall be performed in the following cases:

- the transactions exceed the limits established by the Company;
- if the transactions do not correspond to the information previously known about the Customer;
- if the Company wants to or should reasonably consider it necessary to assess whether the transactions correspond to the information previously known about the Customer;
- if the Company suspects that the transactions indicate criminal activities, money laundering or terrorist financing or that the relation of transactions to money laundering or terrorist financing is probable, incl. complicated, high-value and unusual transactions and transaction patterns that do not have any reasonable or obvious economic or legitimate purpose or are uncharacteristic of the specific features of the business in question.

⁶ the source of the funds used in the transaction is reason, explanation and basis (legal relationship and its content) why the funds were transferred

⁷ the origin of the funds used in the transaction is the activity by which the funds were earned or received

ENHANCED DUE DILIGENCE MEASURES

In addition to CDD measures, the Company applies enhanced due diligence (EDD) measures in order to manage and mitigate an established risk of money laundering and terrorist financing that is higher than usual.

The Company always applies EDD measures, when:

- the Customer's risk profile indicates high risk level;
- upon identification of the Customer or verification of submitted information, there are doubts as to the truthfulness of the submitted data;
- the Customer is a PEP;
- the Customer's Country of Origin is a high-risk third country or the transaction is related to a high-risk third country.

Prior to applying EDD measures, the Company's employee ensures that the business relationship or transaction has a high risk and that a high-risk rate can be attributed to such business relationship or transaction. Above all, the Employee assesses prior to applying the EDD measures whether the features described above are present and applies them as independent grounds (that is, each of the factors identified allows application of EDD measures with respect to the Customer).

When applying EDD measures, the following additional and relevant due diligence measures shall be followed:

- gathering additional documents and verification of information additionally submitted upon identification of the Customer based on additional documents, data or information originating from a credible and independent source;
- gathering additional information on the purpose and nature of the business relationship or transaction and verifying the submitted information based on additional documents, data or information that originates from a reliable and independent source;²
- gathering additional information and documents regarding the actual execution of transactions made in the business relationship in order to rule out the ostensibility of the transactions;
- gathering additional information and documents for the purpose of identifying the source and origin of the funds used in a transaction made in the business relationship in order to rule out the ostensibility of the transactions;
